OUEC NEWSLETTER

Dear Explorers,

Join us TONIGHT at 7:30pm for a talk by Steve Jones, who has spent 25 years leading expeditions and managing operations in remote locations, including Antarctica.

"Eyed up as a breakfast by a crocodile, as lunch by wild dogs, and as supper by a lion."

A funny, poignant and exhilarating talk that covers the World from high mountains, the polar ice caps, African savannah and jungles. Stories and life lessons from forty expeditions to the World's great wildernesses provide a breath-taking backdrop to almost unbelievable stories of adventure and misadventure. On the premise that Steve started with nine lives, he can't have many left, after falling hundreds of feet off a mountain, being buried by snowfall, rock fall and avalanches, pronounced dead on the scene of a road accident in Africa, and multiple close encounters with wildlife

Coming up this weekend...

EXPLORE 2021!

This year's Annual Explore weekend will take place ONLINE on 6 November and 7 November 2021.

Explore brings together a range of expedition professionals, scientists and travellers, with experience from all over the world, to help you get the most out of your project and learn from others recently returned from the field.

The emphasis is on small projects with a research component but anyone planning overseas expeditions or fieldwork is welcome. Whether you are planning your first or 21st expedition, Explore is the event for you.

You can purchase a ticket to watch the main talks online and participate in up to three online workshops. The ticket includes access to the recordings until the end of December 2021.
