

Oxford University Exploration Club Week 5

Informal Meeting

With the Expedition Plan submission deadline looming, there will be no club meeting this week. However, we do encourage those who are planning to submit to meet with your teams and finalize details within this window of time.

Mensun Bound will also be at Waterstones discussing his discovery of Shackleton's Endurance. Details below!

Once again, see below for Expedition Planning Resources!

The deadline to submit is 12pm Wednesday, Week 6. Details are on this page:

Tuesday 8th November 2022

19:00 at Waterstones, Oxford

Last weekend, the Oxford University Exploration Club went to London to attend the Royal Geographical Society's EXPLORE festival. The event was a smashing success, and I can confidently say we all walked away inspired, informed, and attached to several projects.

A full blog-style review of the weekend will be published in the coming days. We are also compiling a drive of audio recordings for the various seminars for those who could not attend.

James Has Submitted his Thesis

A massive congratulations to our chairman, James Kempton, on submitting his thesis at the end of last week! Make sure to buy him a celebratory pint and ask him all about his upcoming expedition!

OUEC Platforms

Finally, please find all of our social media platforms and website below. This is the most up-to-date listing.
