Week 6

Ethnography in Space Research

Michael Murphy

Join us as Michael Murphy discusses his upcoming project, which will study how simulated journeys through space change astronaut identities. Working with Space Health Risk Research and Ethno-ISS, Michael will be conducting a first of its kind ethnography of analogue space missions.

After the meeting, we will be moving to the pub to celebrate outgoing expeditions!

Kendal Mountain Festival

Are you interested in attending Kendal Mountain Festival in November 2023? Kendal Mountain Festival is the UK's biggest adventure festival, taking place in the beautiful Lake District. The adventurous weekend includes incredible talks, workshops, music, and parties - all surrounded by other outdoorsy people. We are working on a discount for tickets for OUEC members, and having an idea of potential participants would be helpful. Please express tentative interest in the poll below if you are keen!

Stash Incoming!

Stash has been ordered! We will keep you posted with any updates.

Call for Book Reviews!

Do you have a good book recommendation concerning exploration or your subject of interest? Let us know! Send a one-paragraph summary of the book and its importance to Michael Murphy at m.w.murphy2015@gmail.com . We will post the review on our social media, other members will know to look it up, and we may even add it to our new and growing OUEC Library!

OUEC Platforms

Finally, please find all of our social media platforms and website below. This is the most up-to-date listing.
