Oxford University Exploration Club Week 4

Expedition Planning pt III

Following the success of pts I & II, we have decided to hold a third Expedition Planning Evening! In previous weeks, we heard about what goes into an expedition application and then delved into the archives of expeditions past for inspiration. By the end of the session, several groups were already hatching plans for this year's application.

Bring your laptops and expedition mindset to this meeting! You do not have to have come to pts I or II in order to attend, nor do you need to have an original idea for an expedition—a lot of people will need your skills and you'll likely be recruited if you want to be.

See below for Expedition Planning Resources!

DATE: Tuesday 1st November 2022, 19:30

LOCATION: Atmosphere Room, Oxford University Centre for the Environment Building.

*At approximately 21:00, we will relocate to the Lamb & Flag pub for further planning.

RGS EXPLORE

Mark your calendars for the Royal Geographical Society's EXPLORE Weekend, Nov 5-6. The expedition and fieldwork planning festival brings together expedition professionals, scientists, and independent travelers with experience from around the world. Advice, workshops, & talks to help you plan and execute your next expedition.

There is talk of taking a bus to London and purchasing tickets at a group rate, so get in touch if you are interested!
